New London, CT - The Public Library of New London will be hosting the first of many Maker Space courses to come! This month the library will be starting a six week series titled The Art of Sewing: Sewing Classes for Beginners, sponsored by Baker, Costa, Mallette Fund. This course will teach New London's community to confidently use a sewing machine and work on small projects that once completed, can be taken home. Each class will build on the previous class. The first class in this course will begin Wednesday March 23, 2016 from 1:30 – 3:00 PM in the library's community room. All supplies will be provided and like all of our Libraries programs, completely free to the community.

The mission of Maker Space at the Public Library of New London is to supply more than just books, but also teach the community valuable skills to enrich their lives, by hands-on courses.
